POLI'S

Dazie comes to Poll's next week. Here is what the Dramatic Mirror says of her:

"It takes such gifted artists as Mile. Dazie to uplift the vaudeville stage, for a single visit to the Fifth Avenue Theatre was convincing enough that The Love of An Artist was about the finest playlet to have ever graced the vaudeville field. Here we have in pantomime a dainty study of the love and passion of an artist in the Latin Quarter for a pretty flower girl, and its fatal results for with jealousy and revenge there was nothing left but death to end the story. Its two scenes were effectively shown, the first being an exterior, while the other, a studio, was comple'e even to the little details.

"The music was part of the production and it was written in Mr. Chapin's best style. As for Mile. Dazie, she never acted with so much fire. Her danging was again as charming as ever, and her acting excelled that of many of the noted pantominists of days gone by. She captivated a large audience, received a round of encores and her success was so absolute that she was promptly re-engaged for another week. Frank Reicher, as the artist, was of good service.

"A few more enterprising women like Mile. Dazie will do much for a line of business sadly in need of novelties. The Love of An Artist and Mile. Dazie are the choicest vaudeville dish."

MRS. FISKE.

Perhaps there is not in America a critic of the modern drams more profound, analytical and discriminating than James Kumeker, the author of "Toonoclasts." He pronounces Mrs. Fiske's creation of Nell Sanders in "Salvation Nell" which is to be seen "Salvation Nell" which is to be seen at Jackson's theatre, next Monday evening, "an extraordinary impersonation," and pays this tribute to Harrison Grey Fiske's staging of the play; "As for the stage settings, and stage management of acts I and III, never in all my theatregoing, ext. ding over thirty years, have I seen stage illusion evoked and maintained as in those two acts. It's true. It parallels any vaunted realism of the Theatre Libre or the new Verismo. I wish Gordon Craig could have seen that bar-room scene or the street scene—the latter scene or the street scene—the latter like one of George Luke's marvellous studies of the East Side." Seats can now be secured.

EURNS-JOHNSON PICTURES.

The Burns-Johnson fight pictures will be seen at Jackson's, next Tuesday and Wednesday with daily matinees. It is said by persons who have seen the pictures at the Auditorium in Chicago and elsewhere, that they are a fine evening's entertainment as they show other scenes preliminary to the battle, in addition to the full fourteen rounds of this event, which decided the championship.

STATE BOARD BEGINS OYSTER INVESTIGATION

Blanks Sent to Owners From Whom Explicit Information is Required.

BOARD HAS GREAT POWERS

Owners of oyster properties in this city and throughout the state have received planks from the State Board of Equalization upon which they are to report to Tax Commissioner Wm. H. Corbin, certain facts. Some of the information that is required is an arrangement of the lots in groups as covered by mortgages, the number of bushels produced by each lot or group of lots, the price per acre at which the owner would be willing to sell his holdings, the character of the bottom and the age of the stock upon the bot-

This is the beginning of the inves-tigation of the board into the value of tigation of the board into the value of oyster grounds for purposes of taxation. A statement of bushels of oysters sold or transferred outside the state during the past five years will also be required. The contents of the reports will not be made public. Under the statute which was passed by the last general assembly, the by the last general assembly, the board has power to compel the production of books, papers, maps and other necessary information and may punish for contempt.

The investigation grows out of the recommendation made by Governor Woodruff, during his term, who declared that the oyster property of the state is undertaxed and proposed its taxation at full value.

TALK NO. 439 Glasses and Clothing

Some people can go to a clothing stort and get a suit that fits them to perfection—some eyes can be fitted perfectly with ready-made glasses. There are other people who can never be fitted with glothing out of a regular fitted with clothing out of a reg-ular stock, but must have their suits made especially for them. A great many eyes are just that way. They are so constructed that they require lenses ground especially for them. They can never wear other people's glasses and other people can never es and other people s glass-es and other people can never wear theirs. We furnish both the ready-made and the "made-to-order" kind. We see that you take no chances. We examine all of our patrons' eyes carefully and thoroughly. We see that and thoroughly. We see that every defect is accurately neu-tralized and every weak muscle placed under the best conditions. We tell you just what condition your eyes are in and what kind of glasses you need. If you do not need glasses at all we will tell you that. Consultations free,
